Persians mark the first day of spring and celebrate Nourooz

Nourooz is celebrated and observed principally in Iran, and has spread in many other parts of the world, including parts of Central Asia, South Asia, Caucasus, Northwestern China, the Crimea and some groups in the Balkans.

Nourooz marks the first day of spring and the beginning of the year in the Iranian calendar. Originally being a Zoroastrian festival, and the holiest of them all, Nourooz is believed to have been invented by Zoroaster himself, although there is no clear date of origin. The significance of Nourooz in the Achaemenid empire was such that the great Persian king Cambyses II's appointment as the king of Babylon was legitimized only after his participation in the New Year festival (Nourooz).

The UN's General Assembly in 2010 recognized the International Day of Nourooz, describing it as a spring festival of Persian origin which has been celebrated for over 3,000 years. During the meeting of The Inter-governmental Committee for the Safeguarding of the Intangible Heritage of the United Nations, held between 28 September – 2 October 2009 in Abu Dhabi, Nourooz was officially registered on the UNESCO List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity.
